Wills & Testaments

Wills & Testaments

- Not as useful to family historians as in other countries
- Often do not list names of relatives
- Up until 1868 only moveable property (things other than real estate) could be included in testaments

Laws of Inheritance

- Eldest son inherited everything heritable (land, buildings, other immoveable property)
- Law of primogeniture (eldest son inherits) in effect from 1868 to 1964
- All other children received equal share of moveables (money, animals, tools, furniture)

Moveable Property

- Anything you can pick up and move
- In testaments known as “goods, gear, sums of money and debts”
- Moveable property divided in three parts:
 - Jus relictæ – the widow’s third
 - Legitim – the bairns (children other than oldest) split equally
 - Deids part (part disposed of by deceased according to his or her wishes)

Execution of Testament

- Widow's and bairns' part were automatically handled
- Executor only had to give up the deids part for confirmation to the Commissary Court
- If no deids part in the testament, it was taken up by next of kin by confirmation
- If no widow or kids, next nearest kin (brothers/sisters) distributed equally

Important Terms

- Testament Testamentar – deceased left a will
- Testament Dative – deceased did not leave a will

The Testament Testamentary & Inventory of the Personal Estate, which belonged & was owing to Wm. James Johnston in Alton at the time of his decease viz: the 31st day of Decem^r. 1815. Years has he fully made out and given up by himself in so far as concerns the nomination of his Executors after mentioned, and in so far as concerns the said Inventory by Malley Johnston in Chapplizill, John Johnston in Easter Dawick, Michael Johnston in Breichbank and Peter Johnston residing at Alton Sons of the said Deceased whom he by his General Disposition and Deed of Settlement dated the 27th day of May 1811. Years nominated and appointed to be his Sole Executors and Intromitters with the whole of his moveable or Personal Estate which might belong, or be owing to him at the time of his decease, as the said General Disposition and Deed of Settlement, which is Recorded along with the Inventory and Oath subject thereto, in the Record of Inventories kept for the Commissaries of Dumfries on the day of March Court and after engrossed now fully bears

There was justly owing to the said Wm. James Johnston at the time of his decease the said sum of money then written B

Testament: James Johnston, 1816

Land Records

Land Records

- Until 2004 Scotland had a feudal system
- All land belonged to the Crown
- Ownership passed to immediate “vassal”
- Originally military duty for land granted
- Became payment of tiends (tithes) of produce or money
- Heirs did not automatically inherit land

Land Terms

- Heritable immoveable property: The land under the ownership of a vassal
- Retours of services of heirs: Return of the jury who decides the rightful heir; goes to the Royal Chancery
- Clare Constat: “Clearly shows”; system used by subject superiors for their own vassals to inherit

Retours of Services of Heirs

- Recorded in the records of the Chancery (NRS C22 and C28)
- Index by Thomas Thomson in 3 volumes:
 - Vol A: Special Inquisitions, Aberdeen-Kircudbright (1544-1699)
 - Vol B: Special Inquisitions, Lanark-Wigton (1544-1699)
 - Vol C: Decennial Indexes to Services of Heirs, 1700-1859; Inquisitiones Valorum; Inquisitiones de Possessione Quinquennali, 1544-1699; General Table

Land Records

- Also found in Sasine Registers
- Sasine: relates to seize – a landholder was seized of the land (aka physical holding of the land)
- Before 1617 handled by notaries
- After 1617 became the Register of Sasines
- Includes changes in ownership and secured debts up until 1981

Registers of Sasine

- Before 1781 are incomplete
- After 1781:
 - Indexes are good
 - Printed abridgements arranged by county
- Similar to deeds in America – recorded within a few days of being drawn up
- Exception: Sole heir already residing on premises

Court of Session Records

The Court of Session is Scotland's supreme civil court and National Records of Scotland (NRS) holds records of the court from the 16th century onwards.

Please note that although Court of Session record groups are normally freely open to public access, those dating after 1915 are currently (October 2017) subject to a temporary re-closure pending a sensitivity review. Before visiting our search rooms please contact staff for more information.

If you are visiting us to research Court of Sessions (CS) records, you may wish to print out our guides, familiarise yourself with them, and refer to them during your visit. Start with this first guide, which acts as an introduction for inexperienced searchers.

The other guides deal with different types of Court of Session records:

Catalogues and finding aids

When searching for processes, you will normally have to look up:

- Our online electronic catalogue
- Card indexes
- Indexes in volumes

Unextracted processes (UPs) and extracted processes (EPs)

The distinction between the unextracted and extracted processes is simply stated:

Our history

We've kept our promise to protect children and young people for over 150 years

Beginnings – the Ragged School

Thomas John Barnardo was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1845. As a young man he moved to London to train as a doctor. When he arrived, he was shocked to find children living in terrible conditions, with no access to education. Poverty and disease were so widespread that one in five children died before their fifth birthday. When a cholera epidemic swept through the East End, leaving 3000 people dead and many orphaned children, the young Barnardo felt an urgent need to help.

His first step, in 1867, was to set up a 'ragged school' where children could get a free basic education. One evening a boy at the mission, Jim Jarvis, took Barnardo around the East End, showing him children sleeping on roofs and in gutters. What he saw affected him so deeply he decided to abandon his medical training and devote himself to helping children living in poverty.

No child should be turned away

In 1870, Barnardo opened his first home for boys. As well as putting a roof over their heads, the home trained the boys in carpentry, metalwork and shoemaking, and found apprenticeships for them.

Our history

Quarriers is a unique, inspirational Scottish charity that grew from one man's vision to an organisation that supports thousands of people to reach their potential. Its fascinating history spans 150 years, and it all began with William Quarrier.

William Quarrier

Early life

William Quarrier was born in Cross Shore Street in Greenock in 1829. After his father died, his family moved to Glasgow. Aged just seven, William began working as a pin maker, and at age eight, he was an apprentice shoemaker. He went on to become a successful shoe merchant, owning several shops in Glasgow.

Inspiration

One night in 1864, William met a boy who was crying. He had been selling matches and some older boys had stolen them and now he would have no money. William decided that now that he was no longer poor he had to help and established a Shoeblack Brigade for children living on the streets. The boys went out cleaning shoes on street corners – they kept some of the money they earned and the rest was used to replenish the they were not mentioned in the Act referred to, and latterly, such practice ceased entirely.

It was the custom, and was so recognised by the Trade, that servants classed as valets or ladies' maids were allowed to dress the wigs or hair of their masters and mistresses. Those servants were expected to qualify themselves for such work, by serving for a term with a member of the Trade. This service required to be booked, and there are numerous entries of the kind.

The few extracts which follow, will sufficiently elucidate some of the methods of the Trade referred to.

4th September 1728. William Selkrig, freeman of this Incorporation, being convened for his packing and peeling with an unfreeman in his trade, in as far as within this eight days last, he received, resett and kept in his shop above the Cross, a parcel of periwigs to the number of ten or thereby, belonging to one George Stirling living in Edinburgh and not free with this Incorporation, and that there some of the said periwigs were sold and disposed of. Five of the wigs had been seized by the Officer, and the accused admitted that his servant had assisted in selling the remainder. The Trade found him convicted of receiving and resetting, and packing and peeling with a stranger, but considering the seizure of the said five wigs, no further fine was exacted.

8th December 1729. Upon a complaint by one of the freemen that John Buchanan, journeyman, had deserted his service and was working for himself privately, the said John Buchanan was convened before the Deacon and Masters. He admitted having sold two wigs and told the purchaser that they were his own, having "made them under the way of cardowing as it is commonly called." Under the thirteenth Act of the Trade he was ordained to pay in to the Collector Ten pound Scots, or otherwise to be put in prison till he pay the same.

Researching Scottish Ancestors 2024

Thank you for registering for the online course, Researching Scottish Ancestors!

Scots have been migrating to and settling in America and Canada for centuries. Today, there are an estimated 25 million Americans of Scottish descent. Tracing your Scottish heritage is rewarding, but not without its challenges. This four-session online seminar will provide you with key historical context, strategies, and resources setting you on the right path to trace your ancestry back several generations in Scotland.

This course includes five 90-minute classes, Q&A with the instructors, and exclusive access to handouts.
