

Lineage Legacy: American Ancestors Seeks “10 Million Names” Lost to History

March 9, 2024

In this episode, Lindsay Fulton from American Ancestors speaks with us about the 10 Million Names Project, Genealogical work isn't easy, but it can be especially difficult for people directly related to some of the millions of men, women, and children who were enslaved in pre-and-post colonial America through chattel slavery. Many Black Americans say they wish they knew more about those who came before them, and American Ancestors wants to help make that a reality through the new “10 Million Names” project. President and CEO Ryan Woods talks with Nichole about the importance of this work, how they're tracking down those whose names have been lost to history, and what you can do to help.
