History

Third Treaty of San Ildefonso

- Broke from wars, Spain and France made a trade in 1800 through the Third Treaty of San Ildefonso.
- Spain gave Louisiana to France in return for the Italian duchy of Parma.
- Napoleon envisioned using Louisiana as the "breadbasket" for French Caribbean islands, but France lost control over Haiti whose revolution began in 1791.
- The United States was worried about access to the Mississippi River.

Treaty of Aranjuez

- The 1801 Treaty of Aranjuez clarified that this was a restoration not retrocession on the premise that France never officially gave any part of Florida to Spain

Louisiana Purchase

- In 1803, Jefferson sent Robert Livingston and James Monroe to France to purchase New Orleans and West Florida for $10 million
- In desperate need of funds, France sold the vast Louisiana territory (828,000 square miles) to the United States in 1803 for $15 million

Louisiana in 1803

The Parish System

- In 1804, the Legislative Council divided Louisiana territory into 12 counties
 - Orleans, German Coast, Acadia, LaFourche, Iberville, Pointe Coupee, Concordia, Atakapas, Opelousas, Rapides, Natchitoches and Ouachita
- In 1807 the territorial legislature adopted the parish system and created 19 parishes (local government districts)
- By 1816, the term "parish" started appearing on U.S. maps

1810 Revolution

- On 23 September 1810, American rebels under the command of Philemon Thomas attacked Fort San Carlos in Baton Rouge
- After gaining control of the fort, the flag of the new Republic of West Florida was raised. This was a declaration of independence from Spain.

Florida Parishes

- In 1810, the United States annexed the Florida parishes east of the Mississippi River from Spain, which were previously part of the Republic of West Florida
- The parishes were the following:
 - East Baton Rouge
 - East Feliciana
 - Livingston
 - St. Helena
 - St. Tammany
 - Tangipahoa
 - Washington
 - West Feliciana

Statehood

- On 30 April 1812, Louisiana was admitted to the Union as the 18th state
- Louisiana was admitted as a "slave state"
- The state consisted of the Territory of Orleans, as well as the Florida parishes

Battle of New Orleans

- Fought on 8 January 1815
- Part of the five-month Gulf Campaign where Britain tried to take New Orleans, West Florida, and Louisiana Territory
- Took place 15 days after the signing of the Treaty of Ghent, which formally ended War of 1812
- Victory for the United States

The GU272

- Debts were mounting from the construction and maintenance of Georgetown College.
- The most valuable assets held by the college were their enslaved persons.
- On June 19, 1838, the Jesuits signed a contract with Louisiana sugar plantation owners Jesse Batey and Henry Johnson. This contract included the names of 272 enslaved persons.
- The sale raised $115,000, equivalent to about $3.3 million today.

Slavery Legislation Changes

- In 1857, Louisiana banned individual manumissions by enslavers. This required court or legislative intervention.
- Officially abolished in the portion of the state under Union Control in 1864 by the state constitution

The Occupation of New Orleans

- In 1862, the city of New Orleans was captured by Union forces during the American Civil War
- This was a turning point in the war due to the control of access to the Mississippi River and the Gulf of Mexico

Reconstruction

- Reconstruction Acts of 1867
 - Black men were registered to vote
 - New constitutional conventions
- State Constitution of 1868
 - First to contain a bill of rights
 - Enfranchised freed men
 - Disfranchised ex-rebels
 - Integrated public schools
 - Property rights of married women
 - Gave pension to veterans of War of 1812

Louisiana Civil War Service Records of Confederate Soldiers, 1861-1865

Confederate service records of soldiers who served in organizations from Louisiana. The records include a jacket-envelope for each soldier, labeled with his name, his rank, and the unit in which he served. The jacket-envelope typically contains card abstracts of entries relating to the soldier as found in original muster rolls, returns, rosters, payrolls, appointment books, hospital registers, Union prison registers and rolls, parole rolls, inspection reports; and the originals of any papers relating solely to the particular soldier. For each military unit the service records are arranged alphabetically by the soldier's surname. The Military Unit field may also display the surname range (A-G) as found on the microfilm. This collection is a part of RG 109, War Department Collection of Confederate Records and is National Archive Microfilm Publication M320. Index courtesy of Fold3.

The GU272 Legacy

In 1838, Maryland's Jesuit priests sold hundreds of men, women, and children to Southern plantations to raise money for the construction of Georgetown University. Though they faced incredible hardship, most didn't perish. They married and raised children. Today, more than 8,000 of their descendants have been located through genealogical research. Review

1. The 19th Century in Louisiana had many large historical milestones, which created many records.
2. Don't limit research to only census records and vital records – seek out as many records as you can, including browsable collections on FamilySearch.
