Where we are going

1719	The first enslaved Africans are brought to Louisiana. Five years later, the Code Noir establishes rules for the colony's enslaved people as well as its population of free people of color.
1721	German immigrants settle outside of New Orleans in what will become known as the German Coast.
1762	The Treaty of Fontainebleau gives much of colonial Louisiana to Spain.
1765-70	Acadians who had been expelled from Canada settle outside of New Orleans.
1768	French Creoles revolt against Spanish rule.
1769	Alejandro O'Reilly takes control of Louisiana.
1770s	Islaños, immigrants from the Canary Islands, begin to arrive in Louisiana.
1790s	Haitian immigrants arrive in the colony.
1795	The Treaty of San Lorenzo gave Americans the opportunity to bring goods to New Orleans to sell and trade.
1800	Spain returns Louisiana to France in the Third Treaty of San Ildefonso.

Study project

Unfortunately, the Catholic registers of Fort Kehl were destroyed. The Lutheran registers of Fort Kehl begin in 1760 and are extant, however, the name of Johann Georg POCH or BOCK was not found. The 1724 census provides an approximate date of birth in 1686 for Johann Georg POCH.¹⁰¹ His wife was born about ten years later, as her age at the time of her death in 1746 was given as 50 years. As there seems to be an age difference between Johann Georg POCH and his wife and also as there was only a Catholic register of Fort Kehl have been lost, the answer may never be known.

The first encounter with the family in Louisiana was on the 1724 census¹⁰² of the German village of Hoffen.

No. 4. Jean Georges POCH, 38, native of Golger at one league from Fort Kehl and from Strasbourg, weaver by occupation, Roman Catholic; his wife, a nursing infant, one and a half arpents of terrain on which he is since two years. He harvested about five quarts of rice.

On January 1, 1726, on the census of the German village, there appeared Jean George PECK, wife, A. 1 child, with associates.¹⁰³ Eighteen months later, on July 1, 1727, the family of Jean Georges POCH, German brewer, wife, and 2 children were residing on the Rue de Quay in New Orleans.¹⁰⁴

On the census dated 1731 Jean Georges POCH, wife, 3 children, and 1 male capable of bearing arms were enumerated at the German village.¹⁰⁵ On yet another list of landowners after 1731, Jean Georges POCH was found to be residing on land that he claimed by possession.¹⁰⁶

By 1741, Johann Georg POCH and his family had moved from the German Coast to Pointe Coupee.¹⁰⁷ A general census of Pointe Coupee was taken on December 20, 1745 which recorded Jean Georges PAUQUE, age 70 years.¹⁰⁸ Marie Catherine GOSSELIN, his wife, age 54 years, and Martin, their son, age 14 years, were residents.

The Road to Louisiana
The Saint-Domingue Refugees 1792-1810

Edited and annotated by Carl A. Brantner and Glenn R. Conrad with introductions by David G. Reardon

In 1792, one finds at New Orleans André Bouquet, a former soldier in the Bourbon regiment who had been living in Saint-Domingue since 1788. Remaining a bachelor, he had practiced the trades of ironsmith and gunsmith. He would not establish permanent residency in Louisiana. In 1804, he was in Veracruz, Mexico.

Denis-Gaston dit Saint-Léonard, from Saint-Léonard in Linnéville,¹²⁷ established in Saint-Domingue since 1780, left for Louisiana in 1793 with his mistress, a woman of color. He did not stay long, for he was in Cuba in 1803.¹²⁸

In late 1792 or early 1793, Mme de Gripière departed for New Orleans with her child and her mother, Mme d'Anglade. This departure was more like a chartered cruise than a hurried escape, but it took considerable wrangling to persuade the captain of the coastal schooner, who was planning to sail along the southern coast, near Cavaillon, to embark the five or six slaves who wanted to accompany Mme de Gripière. Their baggage included several barrels of coffee.¹²⁹

Louis Duclot escaped "during the slave uprising," probably after the fire in Cap-Français on June 21, 1793. A printer and engraver, he moved to New Orleans, where, with the governor's permission, he published the Moniteur de la Louisiane, whose first edition is dated March 3, 1794. It was Louisiana's first newspaper. He was associated in 1796 with J.-B. Lemaire-Fontaine whom he had first known in Cap-Français and who had first been a refugee in New York.¹³⁰

¹²⁷Workers and colonists from Saint Léonard were numerous in Saint-Domingue.

Joseph Derousse's Deposition
The Heirs of N. Hays
2 1807

NO. 2-1807 The deposition of Joseph Derousse, Sen., taken in the state of the heirs of N. Hays.

CLAIM OF The deponent, being first sworn, deposes and saith:

JOHN HAY That about 25 years ago this deponent received an order from Mr. Deleauet to put the father of the claimant in possession of the land claimed, which he did and the father of the said claimant with his family resided thereon a year and half, when he left this country for the purpose of collecting a large sum of money which was due him in the U.S.; that previous to his going some he returned his family to Louisiana where some of his relatives resided; that the father of the said claimant was never heard of after he left the country; that Mrs. Hays, the mother of the claimants, always claimed the said land, and about thirteen years ago sent a son with one of her sons to take possession of the same, but they were prohibited therefrom by Jacob Popper who also claims the said land and was then residing thereon; that when the father of the said claimant left this country he put a man in possession of said land who resided thereon two years and a half as his tenant, who, after the expiration of that time, removed from the same having no indentment longer to continue thereon.

A Project of the University of Florida

Papeles de Cuba Home

Papeles de Cuba is a project in planning to provide access to the Papeles Procedentes de Cuba (791 microfilm reels), a section of the Archivo General de Indias in Seville holding records of the Spanish colonies throughout the Caribbean and on the North American continent. They contain documentation from the mid-seventeenth century well into the nineteenth century and are particularly rich for the period from circa 1760 to 1821.

These documents complement the records of the Spanish posts on the legajo of both East and West Flork, most complete New World treasury Library's holdings of the Papeles Procedentes.

The collection is organized by legajo reference entries generally represent depending on what the legajo control.

The list below provides the titles for each of the legajos in the range 100-109, which can be found at the FR. Yonge Library. Annotated numbers indicate complete legajos. In other cases only selected documents were copied.
