Salt Lake City, Utah

Welcome to the FamilySearch Library!

The Power of Family History

Elder Gerrit W. Gong

“Connecting with our ancestors can change our lives in surprising ways. From their trials and accomplishments, we gain faith and strength. From their love and sacrifices, we learn to forgive and move forward. Our children become resilient. We gain protection and power. Ties with ancestors increase family closeness, gratitude, miracles.”

The Power of Connection: Healing

Elder Dale G. Renlund

“Family history...work provided the power to heal that which needed healing.”

“...as we participate in family history... we also lay claim to “healing” blessings...

“As you...discover, gather, and connect your family. ...You will find healing for that which needs healing.”

The Power of Family Stories

“Family stories can bless and strengthen our children in so many other ways. A study from Emory University concluded that children who know more about their family stories have higher levels of self-esteem, better family functioning, lower levels of anxiety, fewer behavioral problems and better resiliency.”

Elder Gary E. Stevenson

The image is a collage of three photographs. The background is a wide shot of a modern exhibition space with green walls, large digital displays, and a curved ceiling. In the foreground, there are two main elements:

- Left: A computer monitor displaying a quiz titled "Build Your Own Crest". The text on the screen reads: "Answer the questions below to create a personal crest depending on the characteristics and answers chosen". Below this are five questions, each with a "Select answer" prompt and a text input field. The questions are:
 - What characteristics do you admire most in others?
 - How do you want to be remembered?
 - What would you consider your greatest achievement?
 - You just inherited a large amount of money! Assuming there is enough to do everything you want to do, what do you do first?
 - If you were to inherit your own new skill, what would it be?At the bottom of the screen is a blue "Submit" button.
- Right: A large vertical digital display showing the result of the quiz. It says "Thank You" and "Below is your customized crest based on your answers". The crest features a shield with a purple top and a blue bottom, flanked by two white eagles. Three golden keys are positioned across the shield. Above the shield is a figure holding a book. A banner at the bottom of the shield contains the Latin motto "Dante vincit veritas". Below the crest is a blue button that says "Discover The Meaning".

Chapter Three

THE SECOND GENERATION

William Harrison 1766 - 1846 (son of Edward Harrison) [2]

As mentioned in the previous chapter, William Harrison was born in Ashton on 23 July 1766 and was christened at the Ashton Chapel (St. Thomas Church) on 10 August 1766. He was the son of Edward and Phoebe Harrison.

William married Alice sometime in the early 1790's and they began having children about 1793 with the birth of their son John. Alice would have been 17 when their son John was born based the information provided in the 1841 census. In this census her age was listed as 65 which would indicate that she was born in 1776, and her first child John was born seventeen years later in about 1793. There is no apparent record of the marriage of William and Alice Harrison found in the parish records of Winwick, nor is there a record of Alice's surname. It is probable that Alice was a resident of a different parish and the marriage took place there. Civil registration did not begin until 1837. Therefore, no marriage certificate is available for their marriage.

William and Alice were the parents of sixteen children born between the years 1793 and 1821. Their last child recorded in the Bishop's Transcripts was Charlotte. She was listed as the fourteenth child and fourth daughter of William and Alice Harrison of Ashton.⁴⁴ The 1841 census lists William Harrison as the 75 year old head of the house on Lower

Boston Massachusetts Town and City Records [edit | edit source]

Vital Records [edit | edit source]

To understand the issues with the vital records for Boston, we need to understand its history. Massachusetts Bay enacted laws early on for the recording of vital events. The town of Boston dutifully recorded these events. From a study by Lemuel Shattuck using the baptismal records, he determined that the practice of civil recording of births saw a slow and steady decline since 1725 when the reported rate of was 3.3% (religious baptisms were near 5%) and down to 2.0% by 1845 (i.e. less than half of what should be expected). Turning to marriages, Shattuck found that the rate of marriages was relatively unchanged all the way up to 1845. He observed two gaps that should be noted. From 1663 to 1689, not one marriage was recorded in the civil records, and from 1751 to 1761 only a few marriages were found. Deaths were well recorded in the early years, but like the marriages, none appear from 1663 to 1689. A separate volume was used after this period and seem to be representative until 1719. But, from 1719 to 1810, few deaths were recorded. In 1810, recording was done by the Superintendent of Burials so then appear complete from then forward. Shattuck found that from 1704 to 1774, sextons made weekly returns to the newspapers for the number who died each week. In this period as the town grew, the annual average death toll rose from 334 to 521, so many thousands of deaths were not recorded. These gaps and issues should be kept in mind when using Boston vital records. [See Lemuel Shattuck, Report to the Committee of the City Council Appointed to Obtain the Census of Boston for the Year 1845 (Boston, 1846), 126-133, Ap. 71-73.]

For an understanding on the creation of the earliest vital records for Boston, see the articles "Boston Vital Records: 1630-1650" and "Boston Vital Records: 1651-1657" in the Great Migration Newsletter, 12 [2003]: 19-22; 18 [2009]: 9-10, 16, available in many libraries and online only to subscribers at GreatMigration.org ($) .

To search the state copy of these city vital records, see Massachusetts Genealogy Guide to Massachusetts Vital Records, 1841-1920@.

The town's vital records are available in many locations:

This is a screenshot of a community post on the FamilySearch website. The post is titled "Hi, I was wondering if someone could translate this to English? Its in German. Thanks!". The author is Adriana Watson, who posted it on October 16. The post content reads: "I know its quite faded and hard to read, but if you can translate it, it would be much appreciated." Below the text is an image of a handwritten document in German. The document is a letter or note, with the text being difficult to read due to fading. The right side of the document has a vertical stamp that reads "Updated student profile created". To the right of the post, there is a sidebar with a "Quick Links" section containing buttons for "Contact Support", "Free Research Consultation", "My Groups", "My Bookmarks" (0), "My Discussions" (0), and "My Drafts" (0).
