ORIGIN: Unknown (but see COMMENTS).

MIGRATION: 1638 on the Bevis (in May 1638, "Richard Bayley," aged 15, was one of ten "servants" to RICHARD DUMMER (1632, Roxbury, GMB 588) enrolled at Southampton as passengers for New England on the Bevis [Drake's Founders 61]).

FIRST RESIDENCE: No record in New England.

OCCUPATION: Servant.

BIRTH: About 1623 (based on age in May 1638 passenger list).

DEATH: After May 1638.

COMMENTS: Savage [1:94] and Pope [40] claimed that this immigrant was identical with the Richard Bailey who was buried at Rowley 16 February 1647/[8], leaving a wife and very young son, as well as a brother James and nephew John. The Bevis passenger would have been of sufficient age to marry in the mid-1640s, but we have seen no evidence to support an equation with the Rowley man. Nor have we seen any compelling reason to rule it out. (On Richard Bailey of Rowley, see Pillsbury Anc 853-55; NEHGR 173:147, 154; Rowley Fam 13-14; EPR 1:92-94.)

It is also reasonable to wonder whether the Bevis passenger was the same Richard Bailey who was an apprentice at Boston in 1639. On 8 August 1639, "Christopher Stanley for £10 10s. assigns the boy, and all writings concerning him, Richard Bayly, to be bound to Isaac Callimore of Boston in [New] England carpenter, his apprentice, to serve him from 24. 4. ultimo [24 June last] for 7 years, & to give him an ewe kid at the end of four years if he do his duty, and 5 at the end of the term, meat, drink & clothes, & double apparel when he goes forth" [Lechford 150-51]. Here too, we see no grounds for an equation with the Bevis passenger, nor any strong reason to rule it out. An equation of the Boston apprentice with the Rowley man, who left a wife, child, and an estate worth £106 at his death, would be complicated by the apprentice's seven-year term of indenture, though perhaps not fatally so.

Randy West, in unpublished research, has found the baptism on 9 October 1622 of a Richard Bayley, son of William Bayley, at Hursley, Hampshire. "William Bayley of Hursley in the Countie of Southampton] yeoman", to his will dated 16 September 1636 and proved 3 July 1636, bequeathed to "my youngest son Richard five pounds to be paid unto him" at the age of one and twenty years, whether he shall in his own person demand the same or by his attorney or any other ways" (Consistory Court of Winchester, original wills, 1639). Hursley is six miles from the Dummer's home at Bishopstoke. Here the resemblance with the Bevis passenger's details is striking, but we are not ready to accept this equation without better definition of the family at Hursley.

selection. One can not but wonder if he had had another son if he would have called him "Ezekiel." He named his first for his own father, his next for himself and the third and last for his wife's father. He settled in the northern part of Rowley, afterwards incorporated as Bradford, and in that part of this latter town that became the parish of Groveland. In the Groveland church record, in giving the death of Abigail, she is called, "An Ancient woman."

Ezekiel Northend was bound in £100 for the payment of the legacy to his son-in-law (stepson), Joseph Baylye, according to the order of the General Court. Said Northend came into court and passed over to Joseph Bayley a parcel of land in the village land, containing three hundred acres, and also twelve acres of meadow at the same place valued at 51 li. Said Ezekiel gave the other ten li, freely to his said son in law which was in full of the said legacy, etc.

Joseph Bayly chose his father in law as his guardian and the court accepted him, Sept. 1660.

If he chose his guardian in 1660 then he was at least fourteen years old in that year and probably born in 1646. This is borne out by the fact that he received for his property to Ezekiel in Nov. 1667 which he could not have done unless he had attained the age of twenty-one.

Son-in-law and father-in-law often used to indicate "step" relationships, which Ezekial was to Joseph
