

THE ANCESTRY OF John Francis Guthrie Sr.

An ahnentafel is one way to view the ancestry of an individual, showing a narrative version of the pedigree of the focus individual — in this case, JOHN FRANCIS GUTHRIE SR. — and continuing back through the generations. Identifying the father of any individual can be accomplished by taking the individual's number and multiplying by two. The mother of the individual can be found by taking the individual's number, multiplying by two and adding one. In an ahnentafel, males in the ancestry are always even numbers and the women are always odd. To find JOHN FRANCIS GUTHRIE SR.'s father, you would take his number [1] and multiply by two, making JOHN JOSEPH GUTHRIE number [2]. Adding one to this number makes JANE EDNA JENKINS number [3].
